Society Resumes Quiet Activity

FTER the first few days of deadly quiet, society has abandoned a strict observance of Lent and hospitalities are almost as numerous as before, though of a somewhat more informal nature. Official functions are necessarily absent from the social list, since the members of officialdom are widely scattered in this month of March. With the Secretary of State and Mrs. Lansing and the Solicitor General and Mrs. Davis at Pinehurst, the Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. McAdoo bound for Buenos Aires, the Lanes en route to California, and Mrs. Thomas Watt Gregory, wife of the Attorney General, in the midst of preparations for her departure to Texas, festivities in Cabinet circles are

The Vice President and Mrs. Marshall, who returned last week from their Western trip, had planned a series of dinner parties in compliment to members of the Diplomatic Corps, but canceled the prospective hospitalities in deference to the memory of Senator Shively, who died last Tuesday. Brief as was the trip to Indianapolis, it proved immensely refreshing to Mrs. Marshall, who followed an elaborate and exacting social program during the last weeks of the season. The Vice President was the recipient of many congratulatory messages and visits from a host of friends and acquaintances on the occasion of his 62d birthday anniversary which he celebrated last Tuesday. With Mrs. Marshall, he was entertained at dinner in the evening by the Brazilian Ambassador and-Mme. da Gama at one of the most charming parties of the season. There was a huge birthday cake with lighted candles and novel ices and an Hawaiian orchestra was a delightful feature of the entertainment.
